Will Celebrate
Hallowe'en At Kennel Club

Hallowe'en night will be celebrated with all the trimmings tonight at El Cerrito Kennel club track. Topped by a Goblin Derby, in which such good greyhounds as Maid of Grey, Iva Malone, Carona Carass, Jim Feeny and Gallant Mickey will compete, the racing bill embraces all the better dogs. The track will be especially decorated for the occasion, and a free public dance in the new clubhouse will top the festivities. Smarties took to the woods after the sixth race at El Cerrito Monday night, when Dublin Castle, whispered the 'best mudder at the track' and who closed at even money, didn't even figure while Pete Mosconi's Shadow Band scored at $12.40 preferred. Shadow Band has three wins and two seconds in five successive starts. George Carroll's Black Jamie, winner of two straight, narrowly missed his third straight when Sun Flash crowded him to the rail in the fourth, allowing Flying Point to win at $18 preferred and $44 secondary. Sun Flash, hailed a 'fine mudder' was judged second and Black Jamie third.

ARMY ENVOY WILL RETURN FOR REPORTS

(Copyright 1933 by United Press)

GENEVA, Oct. 30.—(U.P.)—Nathan H. Davis, chief United States delegate to the preliminary disarmament conference, announced tonight that he would return to the United States in a few days to report to President Roosevelt on the International Arms Limitation efforts which Germany's withdrawal disrupted.

Davis' communique said that his visit to the White House would be to consult with the President "on the whole situation relating to disarmament."

Keep Mum

Neither Davis nor other leading members in the American Arms delegation will discuss the possibility that his departure meant the United States was prepared to withdraw from the arms parity. Davis said that the date of his return was uncertain. He added that he definitely expected to return after his White House consultations, but in view of growing irritation in American quarters at the recurrent delay among European powers to agree to any practical arms limitation or control scheme there were rumors that he was through at Geneva for the time being.

Davis was reported to have let it be known that he had no intention of returning until the arms conference was ready "to get down to business."

Warning Given

It was recalled that when Davis returned from the United States some weeks ago, to confer in London and Paris prior to the reconvening of the arms parity in Geneva, he had warned the European powers that Mr. Roosevelt was not inclined to continue participation in futile gatherings.

It was hoped then that this would result in the start, at least, of the final drafting of an arms limitation—or control—convention. However, Germany withdrew from the parleys while they were still in the committee stage and the conference met a few hours one day only to adjourn until October 26, and then met again to adjourn until December 4—the date now set for reconvening.

Must Explain

This procedure met with renewed pressure by Davis and the Americans generally to force action immediately after the German elections of November 12, but he failed and is returning to Washington to explain why to Mr. Roosevelt.

Davis probably will sail on board the liner Roosevelt from Le Havre, France, on November 4. Hugh Wilson will remain to represent the United States in his absence.

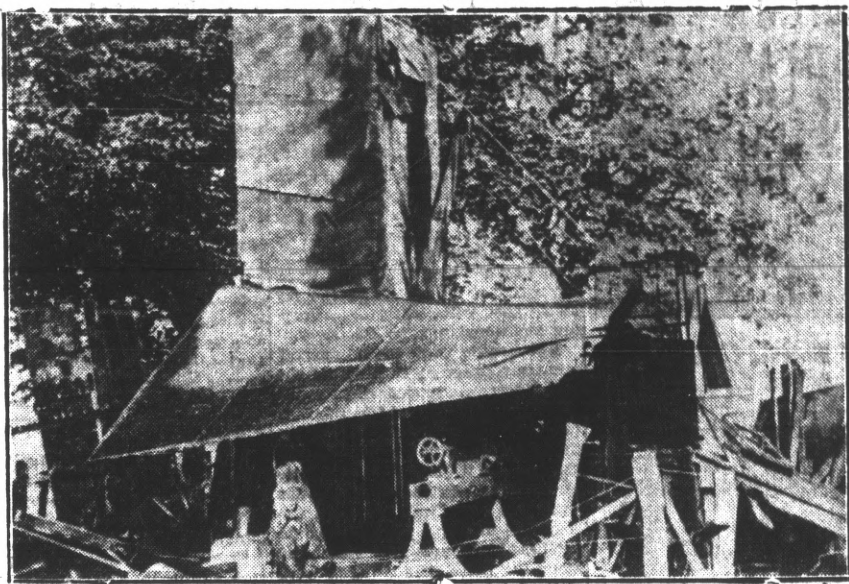

Are Worried

In some quarters it was believed that Davis' return to Washington was connected with Japan's announced policy of waiting "on the sidelines" until the arms situation crystallizes. It is considered certain that he will discuss with Mr. Roosevelt what position the United States will take if Japan refuses to accept the arms treaty after it is drafted, particularly the control clause.

This clause, still tentative, would place all armaments under a test period of three or four years during which the League of Nations would name a commission to inspect every signatory's armaments—naval, land and air—at least twice a year.

HOT WATER

The new Detroit Liquidation Board has lost no time getting into political hot water.

William F. Kemper is a Kansas City banker. He is also Missouri's Democratic National Committeeman. In the 1932 campaign Kemper took it upon himself to write a letter to Jim Farley about Senator Bennett C. Clark, then running for election as the anti-Democratic machine candidate.

Kemper warned Farley that Bennett was not "reliable" claimed that he was under the "domination" of fiery, independent Jim Reed one time Democratic senator from the state.

Clark, young, two-fisted son of the late Speaker Champ Clark, got hold of a copy of Kemper's opus. He has been gunning for him ever since. A few days ago he learned that R. P. C. Chairman Jesse Jones had named Kemper head of the Kansas City committee of the Liquidation Board.

Clark hit the ceiling. He sent a red-hot letter to Jones demanding Kemper's removal, threatened that unless this was done Jones would regret it when Congress convenes.

MPOLITIC

Haughty, aristocratic Winthrop W. Aldrich, Rockefeller son-in-law and head of the Chase National bank, may be an able banker, but he has a lot to learn when it comes to politics. If he hadn't lost his temper during the Senate bank investigation over a newspaper story intimating that he was secretly trying to squelch a probe of Cuban loans, the chances are the committee would have shelved the inquiry.

Because of the unsettled state of affairs in Cuba, members of the committee had suggested at an executive session that the loan matter be laid over for the time being. Before a final decision was made, it was agreed to ascertain the State Department's views.

But before that could be done, Aldrich launched his trade against the committee, which promptly rose to its full senatorial dignity, voted forthwith to go into the Cuban loans without waiting to find out whether it met with the State Department's approval or not.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

The State Department is in something of a quandary as to how Soviet Envoy Litvinov shall be met. For years State Department diplomats have shunned anything favoring of Russia—especially has Robert F. Kelley, chief Russian expert, Kelley has never been to Russia, but hated all things Russian, helped sell Kellogg and Stimson that idea. Now it may be his job to meet Litvinov. New York organizations are vying with each other to stage a big demonstration for the Russian envoy. Probably they will be vetoed by the State Department. A senator called on F. D. R. recently to complain about Jesse Jones and his obstructionist tactics as head of the R. F. C. After listening to the complaint, Roosevelt remarked, "But Jesse works awfully hard."

The premier believes that France is amply able to maintain the gold standard at least until currencies have been stabilized. It is noteworthy that any purchases of gold through the Bank of France from the United States means a corresponding purchase of francs to prevent depreciation of the franc. Financiers do not expect the American gold purchases will prove sensational.

At present, the majority of the press unequivocally advocates maintenance of the gold standard and depreciates any effort to set up a gold embargo as yet.

The newspaper La Liberté, which participated in the dollar attack a year ago, reported the move under the headline: "new offensive against the franc—shall we allow France to be drained of her gold reserves for the benefit of the United States?"

La Liberté asked a French embargo on gold exports while the Journal Des Debats discredited rumors that France may be forced to put on such an embargo.

STEEL PACT ANNOUNCED BY F. D. R.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—(U.P.)—President Roosevelt and steel magnates reached a "substantial agreement" tonight which is expected to be satisfactory to labor by being drawn up as a result of two long conferences among the president, recovery administrator Hugh S. Johnson and the steel men. Other government officials participated at times in the meetings.

Price Reached

President Roosevelt and the steel men also agreed on a steel rail price. It was reported reliably that a compromise between the $35 figure demanded by rail coordinator Eastman and the $37.75 offered by the steel men, was reached under which railroads, financed from public works funds will buy rails at $36.37 1/2. The resulting rail orders are expected to step up steel production and give employment to several thousand men.

General Johnson was convinced sufficiently that the Captive Mine deadlock had been broken permanently to announce that he expected to leave almost at once on his tour of the nation. He had delayed the trip because of the threat to the whole NRA program offered by the mine dispute.

Agreement Reached

Under the tentative mine agreement, mine owners agreed to check off system for collection of union dues, which has been the chief cause of controversy, and to accept national labor board decisions on all questions arising subsequent to today's agreement.

The Captive Mine owners and elected employee representatives will draw up a contract covering working conditions, wages and hours and meanwhile the mines will operate under terms of the agreement between the United Mine Workers and other Pennsylvania bituminous mine owners.

NRA Leader Present

The mine owners agreed to re-employ striking miners without discrimination in affiliation, and agreed that a man may assign a deduction from his pay to whomsoever he desires. The later cause constitutes acceptance of the check-off, by which union dues are collected from miners' pay before the pay envelope is delivered.

Donald Richberg, NRA counsel, who participated in the discussions, said mine owners specifically had agreed that if the miners elected United Mine Workers officers as their representatives the owners will deal with them. Heretofore the Captive mines and the steel corporations have balked at negotiating directly with United Mine Workers officials.

Statement Made

The text of the White House statement: "Substantial agreement was reached today between the President, General Hugh S. Johnson, and the 'Captive mine' owners on the one hand and by the President, General Johnson and the United Mine Workers on the other hand.

"This agreement provides a basis for the immediate re-employment of thousands of coal miners who are now idle if the following measures are put into effect.

Plan Told

"Every mine which has an outlet for its product should be reopened and employees working when the mine last operated put back to work without any discrimination as to membership in any labor organization.

"The checkoff is conceded. A man may assign a deduction from his pay to whomsoever he desires.

Fix Hours

"The existing Appalachian agreement between the Commercial mine operators and the United Mine Workers will fix the hours, wages and working conditions under which the men will go back to work and this will be posted at every mine.

"A formal agreement which shall contain terms and conditions at least as favorable as the Appalachian agreement will be made between

Scene of Lynching

THE BARRED jail entrance which was battered open as a mob of more than 1,000 persons in Princess Anne, Md., broke into the jail, dragged George Armwood, negro, from his cell and lynched him for an attack on an aged white woman. The battering ram used by the rioters is seen on the ground.

The Captive mine operators and the representatives of their employees selected as follows:

To Choose Groups

"When after the opening of any mine, in the opinion of the National Labor Board orderly conditions have been restored and the protection of men working is assured, an election will be held under the exclusive regulation and direction of the National Labor Board and representatives will then be chosen for collective bargaining.

"Such representatives may or may not be members of any labor organization and any officer, national, state or local, of the United Mine Workers of America may be elected, and if elected the operators agree to negotiate with him to a conclusion of the following principles:

"The representatives chosen by majority will be given an immediate conference and separate conferences will be held with any representatives of a substantial minority. If no agreement with the majority

NEW VICTIM OF POISON PLOT SEEN

SANTA CRUZ, Oct. 30.—(U.P.)—Miss Alice Porter of Beach Hill Inn here told the United Press tonight she was convinced that her sister-in-law, Carrie May Porter, was poisoned.

Alfred L. Cline, former Colorado convict and wealthy resident of Glendale, is held at San Bernardino on a charge of suspicion of robbery while authorities investigate a strange series of "heart attack" deaths that included Mrs. Porter.

"Cline was only a slight acquaintance of my sister-in-law," said Mrs. Porter. "She was kidnapping an aut trip to Reno by buying gasoline in Cline's automobile. She was then resident of Los Angeles."

"When she went to Reno with Cline in October, 1931, she had her possession jewelry and securities worth $20,000. They were missing after her death in Reno October 16."

Miss Porter said her suspicions were aroused when Mrs. Porter's body was taken to Oakland and hastily cremated.

"When I asked Cline the reason for the sudden cremation and asked him about Mrs. Porter's estate he acted insultingly."

"I believe my sister-in-law was poisoned. She had never been bothered by heart trouble."

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 30.—UP—The film industry must undergo a revolution in its methods of story selection if good pictures are to be produced in the future, declares Ray Long, veteran editor.

Long, now head of the Columbia scenario department, already has installed his own system at this studio—or rather, he joined Columbia because its method must nearly conform with his own.

"The average major studio, with many stars under contract, buys its stories to fit the stars," he explains. "The way we try to do it here is to buy a story we think suitable for pictures and then hire actors to play it."

"The star-for-star system, of course, is a matter of necessity with the big studios. They have the stars, they must get stories suitable for them."

Long, who spent the better part of his career editing a number of national magazines, likens the present system to that of a magazine, illustrating illustrations and then buying types to fit their types of drawings.

ATTRACTIVE DOUBLE BILL AT FOX TODAY

Another perfect double program opens at the Fox theater today with the screening of "Beauty for Sale" and "Wild Boys of the Road."

"Wild Boys of the Road" a dramatic tale of two orphan boys is said to pack the biggest entertainment punch of the year. The story is a fair portrait of boys and girls forced into the role of rascals, and the helplessness of law and order in dealing with them. Frankie Darro and Dorothy Foy head a big cast of First National screen stars in the film.

"Beauty for Sale" Metro-Goldwyn Mayer's newest screen comedy romance is the added attraction on the current program. It's a tantalizing tale of two orphan daughters of the modern skin game. It's hilarious and full of fun found by these three girls who work at their jobs by day and try to work men by night. Adapted from Faith Baldwin's story "Beauty" it boasts three charming girls in the leading roles. Madge Evans, Alice Brady, Una Merkel, and Otto Kruger, besides May Robson, Otto Kruger, Phillips Holmes, Eddie Nugent and a big supporting cast.

Farm Prices Pegging Plan Told Meeting

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 30.—UP—A proposal to peg the prices of farm products at production cost levels was advanced tonight from a conference of five midwest governors and representatives of four other states called together to seek solution of farm woes.

Advocated by Governor Floyd B. Olson of Minnesota and the Farmers' Highway association and approved by a score of farm organizations whose spokesmen appeared before the conference, the price peg plan broke down a demand by Governor William H. Langer of North Dakota for an out and out embargo on all farm commodities.

New Ships to Be Constructed By Royal Navy

LONDON, Oct. 30.—UP—Big armament firms at Sheffield have begun making armor plate and big guns for the new warships provided in Great Britain's new naval building program, the United Press learned reliably today. The admiralty has not yet announced officially the letting of the new contracts. However, the increased activity at Sheffield's steel mills reflects the preparations of the shipyards for speeding up the naval construction plans, as exclusively forecast early this month.

The move is inspired by the United States building program and the persistent demand by Japan for naval parity.

Many Enjoy Whist Party Held by Club

A large crowd attended the turkey whist party held last night at the St. Edmund's Guild hall, despite inclement weather conditions.

The affair was arranged by the men's club of the church and was voted a big success.

Tony Bozie, of El Cerrito and his sister, Enni, were treated at an Albany hospital on Sunday for injuries suffered when their car overturned on San Pablo avenue.

Both received cuts and bruises. Bozie said he lost control of his car when it struck a rough spot between car tracks.

NEW YORK INSIDE OUT

By DON O'MALLEY

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Prosperity in the City is bustling with activity these brisk autumn days. Better known as Hooverville, this little village on the banks of the Hudson just below Riverside Drive is preparing to face another tough winter. The trail little shanties are being strengthened to withstand the icy blasts that will soon start sweeping and screaming up the river.

Hooverville had just seen a strangely different than it did the last time we dropped over. Realizing the trap in which life had caught them, the war veterans and their families have decided to make the best of it. There is a definite air of gaiety in the place. Radios were turned on full blast and the sound of clashing programs could be heard through the Park and along the Drive. The children were playing hop-scotch. The women were walking arm in arm down Prosperity Street talking over the town gossip about little Rollo and his report card, and Lucy Villager who had just taken a job and moved into an apartment on the Drive overlooking the dingy little hut that was his home for three years, the cousin out in Kansas who would join the colony shortly. The men were working over little gardens. The ground will soon begin to harden and the seedlings will be forgotten. Fruits and vegetables have been canned and stored away.

The Blue Eagle has flown down many of its citizens, but always many of its citizens, but always there are others ready and anxious to fill the vacancy. The ugliest neighborhood in Manhattan is also the most exclusive.

Lucky Greek

NICK THE GREEK, the papers say, has won back the $25,000 he dropped on the World's Series. Nick got his dough back by betting on license plate numbers odd and even, the turn of the weather, the pick of a card, the ponies, and whatnot. Nick will bet on anything when he figures he has an even chance.

One day not long ago he was walking through Central Park with a gambler friend.

"I'll take this dime," said the gambler, "place it against that tree trunk, take fifteen steps back and shoot. Knowing the time right into the tree."

Nick took the bet, $2,000 that he couldn't do it. The gambler fired and hit the dime dead center.

"Now I'll give you a chance to win back your $2,000, Nick," offered the gambler. "I'll take this dime, throw it into the air and shoot it right out of the picture on the way down to earth."

Nick took the bet, as he always does on another man's trick. "The percentage would be against me," he answered.

"Even if you won't bet," answered his pal, "I'll do it anyway."

He threw the coin in the air, fired, and missed.

Times Do Change

HORATIO ALGER, once glorified the American bootlegger. We used to read his stuff years ago and began to get the impression that we'd never amount to a hoot unless we started by shinning shoes, or some such lowly beginning. Horatio's heroes always made good and wound up by paying off the mortgages and setting up the grey-haired little mother in a big Fifth Avenue mansion.

Well, maybe those tales were true to life in those days, but today the kids with the shoe-shining boxes are pretty despondent little fellows. They are yanked out of school by selfish parents and thrown on the streets to pick up a few dollars a week. They're undernourished and filled with an unnatural bitterness towards life.

Sally Rand "Fans"

AS A RESULT of the deluge of publicity that attended Sally Rand's opening here in Manhattan with her famous Chicago fan dance every night club in town it seems. Every motion picture house prologue has another Sally Rand on the bill, and Cab Calloway, his high-heeled of bo-de-deo, is introducing a number dedicated to Sally and her fans. Every fan dancer in Manhattan—and they are legion—is hoping and praying that she will be honored with a police riding party, but John Law doesn't seem interested.

British Move to End Arab Riots

JERUSALEM, Palestine, Oct. 30.—UP—Dictatorial powers were assumed by the British High Commissioner, Lt. Gen. A. G. Wauchope, tonight to put a stop to the current Arab uprisings. The Arabs have shown anger against the British for preventing them from attacking the Jews.

The commissioner issued a proclamation invoking the defense order in council of 1931, whereby the administration has the widest powers to assure public safety, including arrest, deportation, trial and court martial. Heavy guards continued to patrol government buildings. Further outbreaks were feared.

Romance for Two

Jim Tibbett, small-town salesman for a vacuum company, is told that he is to be transferred to the New York office. He becomes engaged to Mary Dalton, pretty secretary of the business manager, and they decide to get married at once.

Jim, a natural-born blunderer, disrupts the wedding by failing to produce a ring, but one is finally obtained and the ceremony is concluded. He and Mary are to leave the next day for New York.

WOMEN OF MOOSE AT BIG MEET

The state district conference of Northern California Women of the Moose was held Sunday at Santa Rosa.

Due to inclement weather the tree planting ceremonies had to be completed indoors. A short talk was given by officers of the organization. H. W. Slater, a life time member of Santa Rosa lodge, addressed the group on child welfare.

Following the ceremonies luncheon was held with decorations in keeping with the Halloween season. In the afternoon a business meeting was called. The officers were seated by the drill team and the work each chapter was told.

Richmond chapter was asked to stage the initiatory work at the next meeting at San Jose in January.

Those who attended the meeting from Richmond were Velma Mae Quinn, Marie Lee Kelly, Theresa Larsen, and Marion Nelson.

MISS CLARKE IS HOSTESS TO FRIENDS

Miss Athalie Clarke, daughter of Captain and Mrs. Raymond Clarke of Mira Vista entertained friends at a delightful dancing party at the Richmond Yacht clubhouse on Saturday evening.

The affair assembled nearly 100 friends of Miss Clarke from Oakland, Berkeley, San Francisco, Marin county and Richmond. A buffet supper was served during the evening. This was the first party to be held in the new clubhouse, which provides an ideal setting for dances, and it was undoubtedly the forerunner of other similar affairs by members and their families.

Several of the out-of-town guests remained over Sunday and were taken on a trip to Paradise Cove yesterday aboard Captain Clarke's yacht "Ace."

A Halloween program was enjoyed by the members, with Mrs. Grace Siple heading the committee in charge.

HOW WOMEN CAN WIN MEN AND MEN WIN

The Favor of Other Men
Unless two pints of bile juice flow daily out your liver into your bowels, your soul decays in your bowels. This poisons your whole body. Movements get hard and one-sided. You get yellow tongue, yellow skin, puffed dull eyes, bad breath, bad taste, gas, dizziness, headache. You have become an ugly looking, foul-smelling, sour-thinking person. You have lost your personal charm. Everybody wants to run from you.
But don't take salts, mineral waters, laxative pills, laxative candies or chewing gums and expect them to get rid of this poison that destroys your personal charm. They can't do it, for they only move out the tail end of your bowels and that doesn't take away enough of the decayed poison. Cosmetics won't help at all. Only a free flow of your bile juice will stop this decay poison in your bowels.
One mild vegetable medicine which starts a free flow of your bile juice is Carter's Little Liver Pills. No calomel (mercury) in Carter's. Only fine, mild vegetable extracts. If you would bring back your personal charm to win men, start taking Carter's Little Liver Pills according to directions today. 2¢ at drug stores. Refuse "remedies" just as good for it may cripple, loosen teeth or scald rectum. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name and get what you ask for. © 1933, C.M.C.

ISLANDERS TO TESTIFY IN SHIP QUIZ

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—UP—Testimony that engines of the British freighter Silverpalm were still running ahead although the machinery had been set at "stop" when the ship struck the navy cruiser Chicago, killing three naval officers was written into the record of a navy hearing here today.

The hearing was adjourned until tomorrow when the board was unable to find a satisfactory interpreter for Malay seamen of the Silverpalm, who appeared eager to testify. The hearing will be resumed on the deck of the Chicago at Mare Island.

D. M. Pitt, engineer aboard the Silverpalm, and J. O. Tough of Encland, an engineer on the freighter for the past 16 months, were the important witnesses.

Pitt said the machines had been set for stop, but the engines were still going ahead for a approximately one minute before the crash off the fog-bound Monterey coast. He said he believed "propeller drag" would cause the engines to function for about five minutes after "stop" was ordered. His testimony corroborated that of Geoffrey Newhouse, officer in charge of the engine room.

Tough's testimony was similar. He said he thought the motors stopped "at collision" although "stop" had been set previously. He averred that a collision could not have been averted had "reverse" been accomplished.

Judge Advocate Paul Glutting, a lieutenant-commander, read the deck log of the Silverpalm into the record. Notes on the morning of the collision included, "Light breeze. Slight sea. Fog patches 8:11 a.m. 8:13 collided. 8:15 stopped boat."

Testimony was noted by Miss Esther Phillips, a United States deputy district attorney. The government may file libel actions against owners of the Silverpalm.

PARTY OF SIX ARE RESCUED BY MARINES

VALLEJO, Cal., Oct. 30.—UP—Marines from Mare Island navy yard today rescued a party of six San Francisco residents whose disabled boat was lashed by a storm in San Francisco bay throughout the night.

The cabin yacht Marr Bee was disabled by a broken gas line when the party was returning from a fishing trip near Suisun. It drifted helplessly, the four men on deck attempting to guide the craft, and two women huddled in the cabin.

At length the boat grounded off Mare Island. Today a marine saw the plight of the occupants and boats were sent out.

John Neubauer, managing director of the San Francisco Boys' club, was owner and skipper of the yacht. His companions were Mrs. Neubauer, her father John Hageman, her brother Carl Hageman, Bernice Jordan, 24, and George Lahusen.

The men suffered from exposure during their long fight against a high wind, mountainous waves and driving rain. The craft was caught by the storm late Sunday.

Police boats, coast guardsmen and three army airplanes participated in a search for the Marr Bee after it was reported missing today.

THREE SAVED FROM DEATH IN BOAT UPSET

Three Oakland men narrowly escaped death Sunday when their fishing boat was caught in the swiftly running tide at Carquinez straits and was overturned.

They were rescued by the crew of a river freighter which hurried to them and arrived as they neared exhaustion.

The rescued men are C. W. Hollowell, E. T. Rawley and Frank Winsby, all of Oakland.

The trio had gone fishing in the Napa river and were returning to Port Costa when they were struck by a sudden squall a mile west of Carquinez bridge.

Their plight was discovered by Parker Wood and R. W. Seltz, owners of the river freighter Dorothea, and they put on all speed toward the small craft.

Before they could reach it, the skiff overturned, plunging the three men into the water.

Winsby was exhausted when they reached the three. Hollowell and Rawley were holding him to the overturned craft, but all were tiring rapidly.

Three lines were thrown to the men by Wood and Seltz. Hollowell put one around Winsby, and another around Rawley. A skilled swimmer, he then tied the third line to the overturned boat and after his companions had been pulled to safety, he scrambled up the line.

All three of the men are painting contractors. On returning from the river, they at first planned to moor at Vallejo, but decided to "take a chance" on getting across the strait. Their boat was swamped before a huge wave overturned it.

The three men were taken to Port Costa, where after being dried and warmed, they were able to return to their Oakland homes.

Hawaii Moves to Gain Rule Of Its Land

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—UP—A bipartisan commission appointed by Governor Lawrence M. Judd of Hawaii arrived here today to defend "home rule" in the territory, and will confer Wednesday with Secretary of Interior Ickes.

A. G. M. Robertson, chairman, said that the sole purpose of the commission will be to discourage enactment of the Rankin bill, pending in the senate, which would remove the presidential requirement for appointment as governor in the territory. This legislation was asked by President Roosevelt at the last session of congress. No local aspirant for the governorship will be endorsed by the commission.

Missing Boys Are Located By Officers

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—UP—Two fifteen year old youths who slipped away from a Connecticut preparatory school last Friday, bent upon adventures in New York City were located by police today after appeals had been received from Detroit and Memphis, where their families live.

The runaways, Phelps Newberry, Jr. of Detroit, and Henry Wetter, Jr. of Memphis, revealed that they had made an effort to have Henry Ford, II, son of Edsel Ford and grandson of Henry Ford, join them.

FRICK DIVORCE QUESTION LIST IS DELAYED

MARTINEZ, Oct. 30.—Interrogatories of defense attorneys who seek affidavits of two witnesses in Australia for the forthcoming trial of a divorce suit filed by Mrs. Helen Fay Frick against Walter P. Frick, eastbay millionaire, having been approved by stipulation, it was announced in superior court this morning.

Superior Judge Thomas D. Johnston was to rule today upon the questions the defendants desired to submit to the Australian witnesses, but with announcement of the stipulation, this action was not necessary.

Cross-interrogatories of attorneys for the plaintiff will be heard in court next Monday, however, if counsel for both sides cannot agree to the phrasing of the questions, and Judge Johnston will rule which questions shall be allowed.

It was indicated that the filing of the interrogatories will allow the submission by Frick of an amended cross complaint required by action of Judge Johnston in dismissing his initial cross complaint in which he made charges of infidelity.

The witnesses in Australia, whose affidavits are sought are Mrs. H. C. Merritt, Jr., and Muriel Bowra.

Explaining the Nerve Condition Commonly Known as Neuralgia

THE name neuralgia is given to a certain kind of pain, due to irritation of a nerve or nerves. Of course all pains are caused by irritation of a nerve, but this name is given to a peculiar pain that follows exactly along the course of a certain nerve or nerves, and is usually of a very painful point where the nerve comes out of the bone. It is usually of great severity, lasts for some minutes or hours and then there is an interval of only slight pain and tenderness over the course of the nerve.

ACCORDING to the location of the pain, various names are given to an attack of neuralgia. As supra-orbital when it starts above the eye; tri-facial when it occurs over one side of face; sciatic when over sciatic nerve at back of thigh and leg; intercostal when over the ribs. It has many and varied causes, exposure to heat or cold, wind or moisture in the air, rheumatic tendencies, injuries to the nerves, tumors pressing on nerve trunks, lead teeth, auto-intoxications from intestinal tracts, pelvic diseases, malaria, typhoid fever, small pox, diabetes and Bright's disease.

THERE are, as well, many chemical poisons like alcohol, lead, arsenic, mercury and possibly for some, the use of tobacco. There is usually no destruction of the nerve and no paralysis or lack of use of affected part except because of pain. If the pain is extreme, severe for a long time the muscles over that area may twitch and jerk.

THE methods of treatment are legion. Of course, the first thing is to try to find the cause or causes and get rid of them. Tumors, that may be making pressure should be removed, bad teeth extracted, but do not take the teeth out because you have neuralgia in the lower or upper jaw or both. An X-ray will show if the roots are diseased and then and only then should the teeth be extracted. Pelvic disease should be corrected, constipation and other forms of intestinal poisoning overcome. Anemia can be corrected by iron, copper and general tonics. Frequent baths, fresh air, correction of bad diet and digestive disturbances and freedom from worry, often go far in overcoming the condition.

FOR relief of pain, use application of heat or cold along the course of the nerve. Blisters and counter irritants often give much relief. Applications of menthol or iodine liniments, followed by prolonged exposure to the heat from an infra-red lamp or the dry excessive heat of a hot iron over the nerve help for the pain itself and go a long way toward preventing a recurrence. The use of various forms of electricity are often successful, and in the hands of an expert, diathermy may give permanent relief. If there is some pressure on the nerve trunk, by misplaced bones or joints, their correction is imperative if relief is to be effected.

As for drugs, there are many. Quinine in large doses for some time often does much good, even when malaria is not present or suspected. An old fashioned country physician, years ago, told me if people would take 10 grains of ammonium chloride every 2 hours for weeks, that neuralgia would disappear from the face of the earth. I fear I cannot go that far, but I have found that it has relieved many cases of neuralgia that otherwise could not get relief without the use of large doses of pain sedatives. It does no harm, but I do not know why it helps.

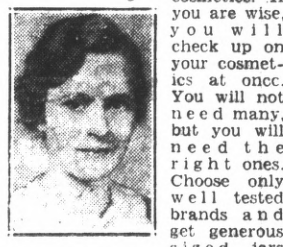

IN severe cases injections of various substances, as alcohol, salt solution, or morphine into the nerve itself or the surrounding tissue gives some very marked results. It is sometimes necessary to stretch the nerve and sometimes the removal of a section of the nerve is necessary to insure relief.

Jackets and Caplets
Jackets and caplets for evening are again a feature, although almost dresses indicate a lessening of general interest in them. Novelty appears to be important in jackets such as the buttoned-up-back type of Worth, or the sleeveless novelty silk or metal jackets of Lanvin. Caplets are more frequently mentioned, with suit effects like quilting or ruffles, and in blinghly, characteristic of the season.

MAKE-UP TIPS FOR A YOUNG SCHOOL GIRL

By JACQUELINE HUNT

THE girl who wishes to make the most of her looks should know just what type she is and how to dress for the part, and she must know how to use her cosmetics. If you are wise, you will check up on your cosmetics at once. You will not need many, but you will need the right ones. Choose only well tested brands and get generous sized jars and bottles.

MISS HUNT

Do not have to worry about your make-up for some time to come. Your skin requires just the simplest everyday care but you must care for it every single day. At your age, your skin is naturally nourished by the swift-flowing blood of youth. All the nerves and muscle cells are young and alert. Therefore your skin needs just a thorough, gentle cleansing twice each day to keep the pores unclogged, so that your skin can breathe.

Use a film of quick melting cleansing cream and after a minute remove the soiled oil with tissues as soft as thistle-down. Then a deep-cleansing washing with a gentle sud of bland soap and warm water. A thorough rinse and a mild skin freshener to tone your skin and you are through.

If there are blemishes like blackheads or pimples, use one of the special preparations consisting of almond meal, healing herbs and soap grains for cleansing or some special formula to help you eliminate the blemishes. Watch your elimination and your diet too. Eat lots of whole cereals, vegetables and fruits and not too many ice cream sodas, candy or pastries. And not too many parties either. Budget your study hours and your dates so you will average at least eight hours of sleep every night. If you must miss out one night be sure to make it up as soon as possible.

Of course you will need a powder and if you live where the weather is brisk during the winter you will find a good powder foundation that keeps your make-up from getting too shiny before your classes are over. A cream help to keep your skin nice. Get one of the light, satiny creams that vanish almost instantly—unless your skin is very dry in which case an oilier cream is best.

Remember that the powder that matches your sun-kissed skin right now will be a little dark and sumdry in a month or two when your skin is fairer and you will have to buy a lighter shade. You will find a bottle of tinted liquid powder nice, too, especially for short sleeved or formal frocks.

You will want a little pot of soft, creamy rouge that matches the natural flush of your skin and you will probably want to use a little of it subtly blended into your cheeks almost every day. And since almost everyone uses lipstick these days you will want one too, but please do not use it every day if your lips naturally have a good color—and when you do use it, be sure to use it sparingly so the effect is a natural one. Keep your lips soft and moist with a soothing pomade that will prevent their chapping and they will naturally have a darker, richer color.

For parties, I am sure that even the most critical, old-fashioned mother will mind if you have a little box of eye shadow and mascara. Use a nice soft blue or a bronzy shadow and apply it very, very lightly near your eyelashes and up on your lids toward the brows at the outer corners. It will give your eyes brilliance and mystery and will practically insure your popularity among the boys.

QUESTION: "When eating baked potato, should the butter be added with the butter spreader or with the meat knife?"
ADELE V.

ANSWER: The butter spreader is for spreading butter on bread. If used on the potato, bits of potato are apt to cling to it when transferred to the bread-and-butter knife. The meat knife is for general use. This applies to everything on the plate of the main course, including baked potato.

QUESTION: "May a man wear a straw hat with a dinner coat?"

CAKE DESSERTS BAKED AT HOME

By JUDITH WILSON

WHEN a woman wants to prepare a specially appealing dessert for her family or for guests, the chances are that she will make a cake. Whether or not she serves something with it depends on the rest of the meal, the time she wishes to spend in preparing it and the type of cake itself.

A moist, rich cake with a generous cream filling will always be served alone, although a spicy cake or a flavorful chocolate cake may be accompanied by a vanilla ice cream or a simple gelatin dessert that is sufficiently neutral in flavor not to detract from the deliciousness of the cake.

Devil's Food Cake

Here is my favorite recipe for a rich, moist, finely textured devil's food cake. Cream one-half cup of butter until it is fluffy, then add one cup of light brown sugar and mix thoroughly. Beat two eggs until stiff and add another cup of light brown sugar to the eggs and beat well. Blend the two mixtures and beat until light. Sift flour, then measure two and one-fourth cups and sift again with one teaspoon baking powder, and one cup of sweet milk until it forms a soft ball in cold water. Add a lump of butter and beat until creamy and cool. Add one teaspoon of vanilla and spread between the layers of cake. Sprinkle each layer with nut meats. Cover the sides and top of the cake with the frosting and decorate with pecan halves. This makes a very rich party cake.

Chocolate Pecan
For the latter, cut four squares of unsweetened chocolate into small pieces and cook with three cups of brown sugar and one cup of sweet milk until it forms a soft ball in cold water. Add a lump of butter and beat until creamy and cool. Add one teaspoon of vanilla and spread between the layers of cake. Sprinkle each layer with nut meats. Cover the sides and top of the cake with the frosting and decorate with pecan halves. This makes a very rich party cake.

Coffee Flavor
Coffee is one of the few flavorings which makes almost universal appeal. Coffee flavored creams, custards, beverages or cakes—men and women ask for them three times a day. And the coffee-nut cake in the second menu is a delight to everyone who likes the flavor of coffee. It has a tempting appearance and a provocative aroma that few can resist.

Caramel Cookies
If your taste runs to a very sweet cookie, try these filled caramel cookies. Cream together one-half cup butter and one cup sugar. Add two well beaten eggs. Sift together three cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder and one-half teaspoon salt, and add to the creamed mixture with one teaspoon vanilla flavoring. Roll very thin and cut with good sized cookie cutters. Place a teaspoon of filling on half of the rounds, cover with another cookie, press the edges together and put on a greased cookie sheet. Sift sugar over the top and brown in a moderate oven. For the filling cook together six tablespoons butter, nine tablespoons brown sugar, four tablespoons cream and one teaspoon vanilla.

SQUARE DEAL EMBROIDERY

Squares are on the level as far as winter styles go. Witness that the white collar and the sheer wool frock shown here are both embroidered in squares.

New York—Interesting and different though the new clothes are, they do not detract from the originality and charm of the new hats, and the new coiffures. With necklines where they are, one finds that they can wear hats that would have been quite impossible with the old V neck.

There are, as you can see anywhere, ever so many good-looking velvet hats and whether they put out or up at the back or are close to the head at the front and are extended over the face is just one of those things you must determine for yourself.

Trimmed Hats
The prejudice against "trimmed" hats is passing now that designers have proven that hats may be trimmed and still avoid the designish look.

Sailor collars are instrumental in gaining shoulder width, and are new and fresh looking when done in silver metal cloth, in the Lanvin manner, on brown high-weight woolen. This interest in metals as a trimming is extended to facings for large bows posed at high necklines.

Removable Accessories
On the basis that removable accessories, worn in sets, are the last word in accessories this season, it is easy to see how attractively they can be set off on a dress of the tunic type. Along with the campaign for "warmth in fashion" that Paris is supporting, this hybrid in woolen dresses seems to be the thing when worn with one of the new, enormous muffs of ultra style. It also may have removable fur trimmings of its own and go simple or important.

The ensemble completed by a long cape presents an interesting phase of winter fashion. It is not the type for everyone, but it is a mode of distinction intended for women with distinction enough to wear it well.

The rednote silhouette is retained for a winter coat in warm woolen diagonal of brown, beige and white mixture. The fur is brown astrakhan.

A Canny Scot Builds a Fortune . . . The Coats Clan

IN Great Britain the name Coats is synonymous with cotton spinning, for this famous Scottish family founded and controls one of the great businesses in the empire.

James Coats, the founder of the concern, was a bit wiser than most of his generation. He grasped the fact, and a very vital one it is, that the best way to prosper was to pick up some indispensable article and concentrate on it exclusively. So in 1824 James Coats turned his attention to the simple social and household requirement of sewing cotton. He began to manufacture thread in a small factory at Ferguslie, Scotland.

When "James the First" commenced operations there was only enough business to occupy the founder and his eldest son, "James the Second." But, adhering to his theories, the elder James sent his other two sons, Peter and Thomas, into the most likely "allied" trade, which to him was engineering. Even in those early days, the canny old Scot appreciated the ever-increasing part machinery was going to play in the cotton-spinning trade, and he determined that such a vital adjunct to progress must be personally understood by its associates and successors.

This thoroughness which the elder Coats possessed was carried on by his successors with marvelous results, and today every member of the family connected with the industry is right "on top" of his job. The Coats never bothered to hire advisers or technical experts. They did their own jobs and kept their eyes on their own fortunes.

BY the time Peter and Thomas mastered the rudiments of engineering, as it affected cotton spinning, business improved so much that Peter was summoned back to the Ferguslie factory and with his brother James was made a partner. Later Thomas came in to assist. When the founder and "James the Second" died, the business, of course, descended to Peter and Thomas, who were fully equipped to develop the family fortunes.

Peter, who by right of seniority and his own efforts, became the first of the family to attract serious attention of the government of the day, inaugurated the string of titles which since have honored the family and became Sir Peter, but further added to the glories of the family by being the father of "James the Third," later Sir James.

When our own Civil War began, "James the Third" realized the Coats family had to get busy and quickly, if the ideals of the founder were to be preserved. So he sailed for New York City and stayed for many years, keeping a shrewd eye on his family's interests. When heavy American protective tariffs were laid down, "James the Third" didn't bother the British Foreign Office, but saw that the simplest remedy was to erect factories in America. This he did. One was built at Pawtucket, Rhode Island, and another in Canada. After thirty years of supervising these plants, "James the Third" returned to Scotland to dispense charity to the deserving and see that the wheels of his great organization ran smoothly. The Coats have been generous in charitable movements, despite all the jokes about the thrifty Scots.

The present members of the family and heads of the great cotton spinning concern are Lord Glenauld, the second baron, and Sir Stuart Auchincloss Coats, whose mother was the former Sarah Auchincloss of New York, and Sir Thomas Glenauld. All of them are millionaires and great estates and carry on the tradition handed down to them by the first and far-sighted James Coats.

RISQUE STORY IN BAD TASTE AT GATHERINGS

By MARIAN MAYS MARTIN

THE practice of telling risque stories in mixed company leads to many embarrassing moments, quite independent of the stories themselves. It presents one of life's most difficult moments for everyone concerned, but the brutal, as usual, falls on the hostess.

ONE naturally does not want to be a wet blanket at an party or to stamp oneself as a hopeless old fogy, and yet just how to handle such a situation brought about by some thoughtless idiot is not so easy to answer.

ONCE, a perfectly strange man, brought by a bachelor friend, met an attractive widow, who was entertaining a few friends informally. The man had hardly been introduced before he launched forth with a story that was distinctly risque under any circumstances, hardly in good taste among a mixed crowd, all but one of whom were strangers.

THE hostess in this particular instance rose gracefully as well as figuratively, to the occasion by remarking icily, "I don't really know where you think you are, or why you think such a story could be told here, whereupon the man stammered and apologized he could not and took himself off, leaving an agitated and apologetic friend behind and a most embarrassing situation.

THE hostess might have lacked tact, but we must admit that to have a stranger barging into her living room, and to have provoked, deliver himself of such a yarn called for some action on her part. It was an unbearably crass thing for the man to do and most certainly deserved to be sent about his business. If such stories must be told, one should at least know one's audience.

THE old bromide that one does not mind a risqué story if it is clever is not always the wisest attitude to take. After all, who is going to be the judge of what is clever and what is most certainly not? One story invariably leads to another, and before one realizes it, some inspired narrator has gone off the deep end, dragging everyone down with him. Any member of a crowd that gets into a mood of "have-you-heard this one mood" is sooner or later going to want to reach for whatever makes one not only nonchalant but shock-proof.

LOTS of men contend that women are the worst offenders, and are the ones who are keenest for off-color stories. They argue this along the threadbare lines of repression. They base their theory on the fact that it is women who are the most frequently of sex literature and the most constant attendants at sex plays and pictures.

SCORES of women sit mute and uncomplaining through these story hours for fear of being bracketed as any of the pleasant little terms "sports" have for those who feel there is something to be said for decency. They may not tell stories themselves, but by listening in without protest, they certainly sanction them.

MANY a husband has risen up in his wrath and called a halt on story telling, not because his wife was shocked, but because with this particular brand of wit. After all, men frequently find it more difficult than women do to cast off their cloak of Victorianism. Some women cannot even find the courage, or the heart, to say as Victoria herself did, on a memorable occasion, "We are not amused." Too often they are amused and fancy themselves women of the world and "broad-minded" because they allow snuff in their living room.

ANY frequenter of musical, reproof, still there is a distinction, and a great difference between jests told over the footlights and those that are told in intimate surroundings.

Bake in a loaf and put into buttered pan. Make a groove down the middle of the loaf and tuck a cup of tomato soup or tomato juice into this groove. Bake for one hour and serve hot or cold.

OFFICIALS OF FARM BUREAU FORCED OUT

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—UP.—The executive committee of the American Farm Bureau Federation announced today that the resignation of M. S. Winder, executive secretary, had been accepted. The announcement said the action followed revelation before a senate committee in Washington that Winder had participated in commissions paid by commercial concerns for advertising without the knowledge of the farm bureau directors. Simultaneously it was announced that the resignation of H. R. Kibler, director of information of the farm bureau federation, had been accepted for the same reason.

The disclosures that led to action of the executive committee of the nation's largest cooperative farm organization were made before the Senate committee investigating ocean mail subsidies. Reports of proceedings before this committee as distributed by the United Press, linking Winder with an offer to use farm bureau facilities for distributing propaganda on behalf of United States shipping lines, were emphatically denied by him and by Kibler.

After making the denial, Winder was called in person to explain his stand before the Senate committee. The original testimony was that Winder had offered for $100,000 to permit shipping companies to utilize the farm bureau publications and organization for propaganda work on behalf of their campaign for government subsidies. Winder said correspondence covering this incident was destroyed but revealed that such practices were common in the farm bureau organization.

In a brief announcement tonight, A. O'Neal, farm bureau president said:

"Disclosures before a Senate committee hearing in Washington to the effect that both Mr. Winder and Mr. Kibler had during 1930, 1931, and early 1932 participated in commissions paid by commercial concerns for moving pictures and other advertising service by the organization, without the knowledge of the executive officers and directors prompted the action of the committee. Such services were discontinued more than a year ago.

"W. R. Oge, assistant director of the Washington office, has been selected to serve temporarily as secretary-treasurer of the Federation."

brought in and photographs of the body taken, the result of which will probably not be known before late this afternoon.

TO BE QUESTIONED

This morning at 10 o'clock, District Attorney Hoey has summoned Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Belmer of Oakland, J. O. Ford, and Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Day, at whose home the fatal accident occurred, to appear at his office for questioning.

As near as the facts concerning the tragedy can be pieced together, a party was held at the home of the Days' Saturday night that lasted until an early hour Sunday morning.

Left Party

Before the card game was over, it is stated Mrs. Ford desired to return home, but the others wanted to finish the game.

Finally, she left the house, got into the automobile and started up the engine, when Belmer went out and persuaded her to return to the house and wait awhile.

Body Found

Later on she left the house again, and soon the other members of the party noticed her absence and went outside to look for her. All of the machines were searched, and she was not found. Going down the driveway they found the Ford machine against a post, and according to those who have made an investigation, Mrs. Ford's arm protruding from underneath the car.

Body Removed

The sheriff's office was notified, and deputies removed the body, and had a tow car take the car away.

Late Sunday afternoon, the matter came to the attention of the district attorney's office.

No Broken Bones

It is stated by an official that an examination of the body did not show any broken bones, nor was the body crushed. The left knee cap is fractured. There is a small abrasion on the left side of the face. There is an abrasion on the shoulder. There is a large spot over the heart. The leg is bruised.

The dress shows a small tear at the bottom holes at the knees in stockings were found, but apparently there was nothing to indicate the body had been dragged, investigators declared last night.

Funeral Today

The funeral will be held this afternoon from the undertaking parlors of Wilson and Kratzer.

Mrs. Ford was a native of Nebraska. Besides her husband she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Carroll Kennedy of Richmond; a son, Clarence, of Richmond; two sisters, Mrs. Mary Moyle of Richmond, and Mrs. Edith Crockett of Watsonville, and four brothers, Harry A. Phelps, Thomas D. Phelps and H. D. Phelps of Richmond and S. E. Phelps of Portland.

She was a member of the Eastern Star and Club Mendelssohn, had resided in Richmond for many years and was active in the life of the community.

fired with bricks and stones and the sound of shouting voices and crashing windows. More than 100 windows were broken. One man reached through broken windows and snatched blueprints and drawings with which they made a huge battle.

Rioting continued until Sheriff Manager F. L. Fralich fired two shots in the air to frighten the attackers. The rioters broke up into two or three bands and drove to other plants.
